were too busy watching their backs. It was a disaster.

That is... Until one day. A small young girl stood up in the midst of a group fight and shouted, "Enough! What is wrong with all of us! We agreed to _____ _____. Have we forgotten that? Why are we letting this gateway gang ruin us! We need to chase them out of here!"

And the community whooped and cheered—they were so relieved that someone finally came up with a solution. So they began to hunt out the gang, and drive them out of town... but it was difficult work. That gang was so sneaky they would try to sneak back into town. It took lots of work for the community of _____ to keep driving out that gang. But as they worked together to fight for the community they believed in, they remembered their values, and became stronger. They learned that a little conflict wasn't going to tear apart their community, in fact, it had made them stronger, and more committed to stand up for their beliefs, because they saw the ruins they came to when they didn't.

Now I'll tell you this... that gateway gang is sneaky. And they may show up right here in this community. So when we see them, what are we going to do?

We need to chase them out, by saying our community agreements.

We need to chase them out, by remembering our values.

We need to chase them out, by being strong and standing up for our beliefs.

Are we ready to chase out the gateway gang?
